

Experience

With more than 30 attorneys in seven offices, Schnader's Product Liability Practice Group has the experience you expect and require. In addition, our attorneys have successfully defended clients in state courts in many other jurisdictions as well as federal district courts and appellate courts throughout the country.

Although Schnader is nationally known for its successful trial work, Schnader attorneys also counsel clients in claims management, pre-litigation investigation, litigation databases, document retention programs, product recalls, risk prevention, and regulatory issues. Our attorneys also have served as worldwide, national, and regional counsel for many manufacturers and sellers of products.

Many of the members of our group are leaders in the field and have received numerous honors and awards. In recognition of our trial talent, a number of our partners have been selected for membership and hold leadership positions in such prestigious groups as the American Board of Trial Advocates, the American College of Trial Lawyers, the American Academy of Appellate Lawyers, and the International Association of Defense Counsel. Our lawyers publish frequently in their particular areas of practice and speak often on product liability, complex litigation, and toxic tort issues at educational programs sponsored by the American Bar Association, the Practising Law Institute, the Defense Research Institute, and various state bar associations and industry groups.