

Industrial Equipment Team

The experience of our Industrial Equipment Team is wide and varied. Our attorneys have handled matters involving all types of machinery and equipment used in the industrial workplace. We have successfully defended manufacturers and suppliers of a variety of products, including aerial work platforms, benders, boilers, conveyor belts, cranes, drills, forklifts, formers, grinders, hoists, industrial lighting, insulation, lathes, milling machines, mixers, palletizers, piping, pumps, punch presses, printing presses, rollers, steam traps, turbines, and valves.

Many of our attorneys have direct experience working with this equipment and know how to analyze and question claims that the product or a component of that product is defective. We believe that the first requirement for a strong defense is understanding the equipment, its operation and its maintenance. This knowledge is critical to ensuring that all available defenses are considered. Our experience with these products gives us an edge over opposing counsel, and enables us to provide better service and obtain better results for our clients.

We represent manufacturers and suppliers of industrial equipment in litigation nationwide. In addition to defending claims once in litigation, the team regularly advises its clients with respect to risk management and prevention, contract review, insurance, intellectual property, and a variety of other issues.