The Sports Law Team at Schnader brings together attorneys from multiple disciplines to service the broad and complex needs of our sports and fitness clients.

Personal Fitness

As the U.S. population ages, more and more people are driven to become health-conscious and to search for safe, economic and effective solutions to getting fit. Sports and fitness manufacturers, retailers, distributors, wholesalers and marketers must be responsive to consumer demands while also cognizant of legal issues impacting the industry and their businesses.

Sports

Professional and amateur sports continue to be a huge pastime for Americans of all ages. Like most businesses, consumer spending, technological advancements, and the nation's economic climate plays roles in shaping the direction of this multibillion industry. Revenue-generating activities like media rights, merchandising and sponsorships are evolving, creating a greater demand for understanding the nuances and effectiveness of these decisions. Safety concerns and regulatory changes are increasingly impacting many aspects of this industry, from how the game is played to how it is branded and sold. Professional and amateur teams and associations - whether youth leagues, collegiate-level sports, or the pros - and their participants need to stay current regarding the rights, responsibilities and opportunities in the marketplace and within their organizations.

Schnader's sports law attorneys represent sporting goods equipment and apparel manufacturers and retailers; teams, owners and players; stadium authorities; governmental entities; and many others in the sports and fitness industry. We advise clients on issues ranging from licensing, sponsorships and merchandising to risk avoidance matters. Our litigators have substantial experience trying product liability, failure to warn, product defect and personal injury cases in state and federal courts throughout the country.

Representative Matters Include

Litigation

- Defended an international horse trader against fraud and related claims associated with the purchase and sale of horses and the management of horse farm operations.
- Represented professional equestrians in a wide variety of matters, including disciplinary proceedings before the national governing body of the sport and defending athletes against allegations of doping and other violations of the sport's rules.
- Defended a manufacturer of home fitness equipment in multiple personal injury actions post-product recall. Handled issues related not only to design defect allegations but also to recall, spoliation, possible counterfeiting, and punitive damages claims. Guided the cases through discovery to favorable resolutions at mediation.
- Defended a major university against a claim for patent infringement based on the installation of artificial turf in its football stadium. Settled the claim at a very early stage in the litigation.
- Represented a marketing company in an advertising dispute with a top tennis player and successfully settled claims for trade name infringement and counter-claims for breach of fiduciary duty.

- Obtained summary dismissal for component part manufacturer for luxury sailboat.
- Defended a sporting goods manufacturer against various product liability claims brought by governmental entities.
- Represented several major league umpires in a defamation case in connection with a mass resignation resulting from a labor dispute.
- Represented a dietary supplement supplier against product liability claims and commercial disputes. Through strong early discovery efforts our team helped guide the case towards an early settlement in which the supplier paid nothing, despite contractual and innocent distributor theories advanced by the plaintiff.
- Defended numerous cases on behalf of a golf car manufacturer involving defect allegations and issues related to proper use of golf cars and the conditions of golf courses.
- Represented The Oakland Athletics Baseball Club in state court and bankruptcy court litigation against a counterparty who entered into a contract with the Oakland A's to license its name and operate a youth baseball summer camp.
- Represented a Division I university in a trademark infringement lawsuit brought against its separately incorporated athletic booster club. The court granted our request for a preliminary injunction.
